DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-11, drawn to a tool that including a stapler, classified in class 227, subclass 76.
 - II. Claims 12 and 13, drawn to a method of using a multi-purpose tool, classified in class 173, subclass 1.
 - III. Claims 14-20, drawn to drawn to a tool that including a punch, classified in class 30, subclass 414.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as a stapler that is detachable from the housing. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions II and (I & III) are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus such as any multiple functional tool holder that houses variety of tools that are detachable from the housing.

2. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

3. During a telephone conversation with Mr. Kenneth Hovet on September 24, 2004, a provisional election was made without traverse to prosecute the invention of Group I, claims 1-11. Affirmation of this election must be made by applicant in replying to this Office action. Claims 12-20 are withdrawn from further consideration by the examiner, 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Chiou (4,807,744) or Tsuji (4,753,346).

Chiou discloses an apparatus comprising:

a housing 1;

a stapler 21 is detachably mounted to the housing, the stapler having an actuating member; and a recess 11 in the housing that is engageable with the actuating member when the stapler is mounted to the housing.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 2-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chiou (4,807,744) or Tsuji (4,753,346) in view of Padden (6,009,584).

As discussed above in paragraph 5 of this office action, Chiou discloses the claimed invention, but does not expressly disclose the recess for the stapler as recited in claims 2-8, however, it is well known in the art to create recess in the housing of the multiple-purpose tool holder in such a way that the recess accommodates the shape and size of the tool being inset to the housing. The recess comprises slot, curve portion, flange, tab, etc.

Chiou shows recesses in the housing to accommodate the shape of varieties of tool, such as recess 11 for the stapler, recess 15 for the pen 5, recess 12 for the knife 3, etc.

Pedden's disclosure further support the contention that it is well known in the art to create recess in the housing of the multiple purpose tool holder with varieties of shapes and sizes to accommodate varieties of tool. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art, at the time applicant's invention was made, to have modified Chiou by incorporating the creation of recesses in the housing of the multiple-purpose tool holder to fit different tools as taught by Peddent.

As for a hole punch to fit an opening at the corner opening in the tool housing as recited in the claim 9, the examiner take official notice that it is within the skill of one in the art to provide a hole puncher in the multiple purpose tool holder providing a complete stationery tool set.

8. Claims 2-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chiou (4,807,744) or Tsuji (4,753,346) in view of Ng (6,145,994).

As discussed above in paragraph 5 of this office action, Chiou discloses the claimed invention, but does not expressly disclose a lighting means mounted within the housing and oriented for illumination through the aperture, and an activation means to illuminate the lighting.

Ng discloses an apparatus comprising lighting means 30 mounted within the aperture and an activation means 28 to illuminate the lighting, Ng apparatus provides the multiple-purpose tool holder with lighting capability. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art, at the time applicant's invention was made, to have modified Chiou by incorporating the lighting apparatus as taught by Ng providing the multiple-purpose tool holder with lighting capability.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
